Headteacher update:

Classrooms and corridors have really come alive this week with displays of the learning that has been happening so far this term. This is great evidence of the rich variety of subject children experience at our school as well as an example of the creativity that thrives here. Visit the school blog linked in the curriculum update below to see them for yourself.

As an Infant school all of our children are eligible for universal free school meals. However, the government funding for children who are eligible for free school meals (as well as for children who are looked after, previously looked after, or part of a services family), known as Pupil Premium has a scope far beyond this. Children are part of a focus group whose needs are closely monitored and may receive additional support in a range of areas in order to ensure they meet their potential. In addition the family may be eligible for support towards school trips, milk, uniform or enrichment clubs.

If you believe that your family may be eligible for this funding, please speak to staff in our school office as soon as possible and they will help you to complete the simple checker form. School Census day on the 7th October is the deadline for schools submitting this information in order to receive Pupil Premium funding in the next allocation.

Here is a link to our strategy which explains how we use the funding and how it could benefit your child.

Children have been so busy in their learning across the curriculum that teachers have been able to create wonderful examples of the different subjects the children study at our school. Click here to visit the whole school blog post where you can see some of the displays.

Important Messages:

Parent Talent Bank!

We hope to be able to welcome back parent helpers into school next term and would like any parent who can spare one off or regular time to let us know of their talents and availability so that we can let them know when we are able to put them to good use.

We have spaces each day for Infant or Junior children at Breakfast club. The club is run by familiar adults who provide a healthy breakfast and some indoor and outdoor activities to ensure a happy and settled start of the day.

Class of the Week: Class 9 for showing that they are always ready to learn.
