'Be kind, be curious, be you'

1st December 2023 Bulletin

Headteacher update:

It may only be the 1st of December, but with the sudden change in temperature causing a frost and the excitement of advent in the air, it feels futile to fight the song buzzing around my head because it really is... beginning to feel a lot like Christmas!

We have a lot of activities and events that enrich our curriculum going on in the next two weeks, so please keep an eye on class blogs. As well as a focus on Christmas and Christmas-themed activities in English and maths sessions, we continue to teach the children a broad curriculum throughout December. Reception meet their final ELLI character-Linking Spider, who reminds us about the value of making connections with previous learning. They are also learning facts about spiders and creating spider models Year 1 continue their learning about weather in science, create peppermint creams as part of DT and start work on creating algorithms in computing, Year 2 complete their learning about oceans and continents, start a baking project and end this term's computing unit by learning how to de-bug code.

Below are some pictures of the December additions to the school. Buttercup Class are really loving their Christmas role play area!

Have a good weekend.

Best wishes,

Gemma Fricker

Curriculum Update: Eco Committee

The Eco committee spent some time on Wednesday braving the cold to plant daffodil bulbs to brighten up the front of the school. Thank you so much to the parent helpers that were able to join us.
